

Shakespeare once described the eyes as “windows to the soul”, presaging